Gentlemen:

In case you are not familiar with the Free University concept, let me tell you a little bit about it.

A Free U offers non-credit, tuition-free courses in areas not normally covered in a conventional college curriculum. These courses are open to any person in the community who is interested in participating. One of the courses we will be offering this fall through the free university program at the University of Louisville is a series on national security and intelligence.

The FBI and the Secret Service have already agreed to send speakers for this course, and the local police department will also be sending someone. We would like very much to have someone from the CIA to talk about the history and responsibilities of the CIA and its role in society today. We will arrange rooms and publicity for the talk.

Please let me know as soon as possible if you would be able to send someone for a speech, on any day in October or November, preferably the third or fourth week in November. We sincerely hope you are able to take part in our series.

Thank you very much.

Yours sincerely,

Rana Pennington
